

2011 Faculty Elections Full Voter Information Guide

The annual faculty elections will be held April 13th-22nd, 2011. Electronic ballots will be sent by email to all members of the Voting Faculty on April 13th. These pages are not a ballot and will not be tabulated if submitted.

Each candidate was invited to submit a URL link to a personal webpage and a statement. Full information submitted is available below. Click the candidate's name to go to his or her web page.

Faculty-Wide Elections (All faculty vote for each of these)

Chair of the Faculty
Chancellor's Advisory Committee
Committee on Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure
Arts and Sciences
School of Medicine
Professional Schools other than Medicine
Educational Policy Committee
Faculty Assembly Delegation
Faculty Athletics Committee
Faculty Executive Committee
Faculty Grievance Committee
Professors
Associate Professors
Assistant Professors
Faculty Hearings Committee
Financial Exigency and Program Change Committee
Academic Affairs
Health Affairs
Honorary Degrees and Special Awards Committee

Apportioned Elections (Only voters with primary appointments in the appropriate division vote for candidates representing that division)

Administrative Board of the Library
Humanities
Natural Sciences
Social Sciences
Faculty Council
Electoral Division 1: Fine Arts of the College of the Arts and Sciences: Non-Tenured, Tenured
Electoral Division 3: Natural Sciences and Mathematics of the College of Arts and Sciences: Non-Tenured, Tenured
Electoral Division 5: University Libraries
Electoral Division 6: School of Information and Library Science
Electoral Division 9: School of Journalism and Mass Communication: Non-Tenured
Electoral Division 13: School of Medicine: Non-Tenured
Electoral Division 15: School of Nursing: Non-Tenured
Electoral Division 16: School of Pharmacy: Tenured
Electoral Division 17: School of Public Health: Non-Tenured
Electoral Division 18: Retired Faculty

Faculty-Wide Positions

All members of the Voting Faculty vote for these

Chair of the Faculty

Jan Boxill

Appointed 8/25/1988

Senior Lecturer, Philosophy

Ph.D., University of California, Los Angeles, 1981

M.A., University of California, Los Angeles, 1972

B.A., University of California, Los Angeles, 1967

Boxill, Senior Lecturer of Philosophy and former Associate Chair of the Philosophy Department, directs the Parr Center for Ethics. Her writing and teaching focus on ethics, social and political philosophy, feminist theory and ethics in sports. She is editor of Sports Ethics: An Anthology and Issues in Race and Gender. She is past president of the International Association for Philosophy in Sport, serves on the board of the NCAA Scholarly Colloquium

Committee, and chairs both the 2011 NCAA Scholarly Colloquium and the Education Outreach Program for the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency (USADA). For 25 years, Boxill was the public address announcer for UNC women's basketball and field hockey; she now serves as the radio color analyst for UNC women's basketball.

A graduate of the BRIDGES Academic Leadership for Women program, Boxill has served on the Faculty Council and its Agenda Committee, the Fixed-Term Faculty Committee, the Committee on the Status of Women, the faculty Nominating Committee and the Chancellor's Advisory Committee. She has received the Tanner Award for Undergraduate Teaching, an IAH Parr Ethics Fellowship, the Mary Turner Lane Award, the Women's Advocacy Award, the Excellence in Advising Award, and a Chapel Hill Village Pride Award. She has coordinated the IAH Ethics Fellowship Program and chaired the University-Wide Teaching Awards Committee. Through the Carolina Speakers Bureau, she has spoken on topical ethical issues to academic, business, and community groups across North Carolina. Boxill received her B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. in philosophy from UCLA.

Jan's Professional Webpage: <http://philosophy.unc.edu/people/faculty/jan-boxill>

Parr Center for Ethics: <http://parrcenter.unc.edu/people/staff-1/jan-boxill>

Vin Steponaitis

Appointed 1/1/1988

Professor, Anthropology

Ph.D., University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, 1980

M.A., University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, 1975

A.B., Harvard University 1974

Steponaitis is Professor of Anthropology, Director of the Research Laboratories of Archaeology, and Chair of the Curriculum in Archaeology. His research focuses on the archaeology of the American South, and his books include Ceramics, Chronology, and Community Patterns; Archaeology of the Moundville Chiefdom; and the award-winning Excavating Occaneechi Town, one of the first digital monographs in archaeology.

Steponaitis has served on Faculty Council and many UNC committees and advisory boards. He now chairs the Committee on University Government, co-chairs the Advisory Board of the American Indian Center, previously chaired the Faculty Committee on Research, and was a member of the Faculty Council's Agenda Committee. He was chosen for the inaugural class of Academic Leadership Fellows at the Institute for the Arts and Humanities. He spoke to civic groups across the state for many years as a Carolina Speaker and was named a Sigma Xi Distinguished Lecturer in 2008.

Outside the university, he has been president of the Society for American Archaeology, chair of the board for the Archaeological Conservancy, president of the Southeastern Archaeological Conference, and editor of the scholarly journal Southeastern Archaeology. He was also appointed by the U.S. Secretary of the Interior to the NAGPRA Review Committee, a national panel that oversees implementation of laws governing the repatriation of museum collections to Native American tribes. Steponaitis received his A.B. from Harvard University and his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan.

Vin's Professional Webpage: <http://anthropology.unc.edu/people/faculty/vsteponaitis>

Research Laboratories of Archaeology Profile: <http://rla.unc.edu/personal/vps/index.html>

Chancellor's Advisory Committee

Vote for 3

Brewster, Wendy

Appointed 11/17/2008

Associate Professor, Obstetrics and Gynecology

Ph.D., University of California Irvine, 2000

M.D., University of California Los Angeles, 1991

B.A., Rutgers University, 1987

As the Director for the Center for Women's Health Research I am responsible for promoting and facilitating research on women's issues, even those outside the health arena. Participation on the Chancellor's Advisory Committee would allow me to identify the bigger issues that affect the university and impact research. I hope that this will be a platform to facilitate transdisciplinary relationships within and outside of healthcare.

Broome, Lissa

Appointed 7/1/1984

Wachovia Professor of Banking Law and Director of the Center for Banking and Finance

J.D., Harvard University, 1981

B.S., University of Illinois at Urbana, 1978

I currently serve on the Chancellor's Advisory Committee and would welcome the opportunity to continue that service for a second three-year term to help provide the perspective of a professional school. I have been a member of the law school's faculty since 1984.

Renner, Joy

Appointed 8/1/1986

Clinical Associate Professor, School of Medicine

B.S., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1980

I have been on the faculty at UNC since 1986 and have served as Director of the Division of Radiologic Science since 1988. Within our Division we have certificate, baccalaureate, and graduate degree programs. In addition I have served on the Faculty Council, the Faculty Athletics Committee, the Center for Faculty Excellence Advisory Board, and the Fixed Term Faculty Committee. I teach in all three of our programs and serve as a General College Academic Advisor. Beyond teaching, our Division faculty and I are actively involved in professional and public service. We are particularly concerned with decreasing patient radiation doses and with improving the quality of medical imaging services. After my years here at Carolina watching the campus grow and change and with my participation in a wide range of teaching, administration, advising, and committee service, I will bring an open-minded and knowledgeable perspective to the Chancellor's Advisory Committee.

Smith, Natasha

Appointed 10/1/1996

Librarian, Carolina Digital Library and Archives

M.S.L.S., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1995

M.A., Moscow University, 1978

B.A., Moscow University, 1976

It is a great honor to be nominated to service on the Chancellor's Advisory Committee. Before coming to the States, I worked as an editor in a large publishing house in Moscow. Since 1995, I have worked on setting up the foundations and shaping the digital library initiative at Carolina. I have had the privilege of putting our institution on the digital map through my very close collaboration with outstanding faculty members, students, and library colleagues. The results of this partnership are online collections that have a vast and truly global audience of visitors from over 200 countries/territories. I have authored or actively contributed to more than twenty grants applications and served as PI or project manager on 18 successful externally funded projects that helped disseminate Carolina research and new knowledge and provide for public benefit. Several of those grants are given by federal agencies, most notably the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Library of Congress. Throughout my professional career, I have participated in professional organizations, served on numerous committees on the local, national and international level, including two terms on the Executive Council of the international Association for Computers and the Humanities. At UNC, I have served on several library committees and closely collaborated and often brought together different constituencies across campus, particularly SILS, School of Education, Center for the Study of the American South, UNC Press, Departments of English, History, Religious Studies, Southern Oral History Program, African American Studies, American Studies, etc. With gratitude, I accepted the nomination and the responsibility it implies. What I have seen and infinitely treasured at Carolina is its collegial spirit—I know that our working together brings the results that the state expects from one of the leading research universities in the nation. I see this nomination as a unique opportunity to strengthen the collaboration between different constituencies, to engender partnership and dialogue among faculty, students and librarians and thus to make Carolina even a better place of creativity and innovation. I am eager to move forward as soon as I have this exciting opportunity.

Smokowski, Paul

Appointed 7/1/1999

Professor, School of Social Work

Ph.D., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1998

M.S.W., Suny at Buffalo, 1995

B.A., Suny at Buffalo, 1990

During my twelve years of service to UNC-Chapel Hill, I have seen the university go through major changes. My interdisciplinary background rooted in psychology, theater, sociology, family studies, social work, and public health allows me to support multiple points of view and reconcile different opinions. This is a valuable skill that I would bring to the Chancellor's Advisory Committee. As Director of the new, CDC-funded North Carolina Academic Center for Excellence in Youth Violence Prevention (NC-ACE), I've shown my capacity to bring faculty from different disciplines across campus together to work on common goals. I have strong experience both running large research projects and remaining highly engaged in teaching graduate and doctoral students. As a member of the Chancellor's Advisory Committee, I would use all of these skills and experiences to help our university administration meet the challenges inherent in our current economic climate.

Committee on Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure Arts & Sciences

Vote for 1

Nelson, Alan

Appointed 7/1/2006

Professor, Philosophy

Ph.D., University of Illinois at Chicago, 1984

M.S., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1982

S.B., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1978

I became Professor of Philosophy at UNC in 2006 and am currently the Department's Director of Graduate Studies. In 2011, I was a recipient of the UNC Distinguished Teaching Award for Post-Baccalaureate Instruction. Previously, at the University of California, Irvine I served as department chair and did stints on the campus-wide Privilege and Tenure Grievance Committee and on the Appointment, Promotions, and Tenure Committee. If elected, I will use that experience to uphold UNC's high standard of excellence while being sensitive to criteria specific to various disciplines and to interdisciplinary research and teaching.

Panter, Abigail

Appointed 7/1/1989

Bowman and Gordon Gray Distinguished Professor of Psychology

Ph.D., New York University, 1989

M.A., New York University, 1987

B.A., Wellesley College, 1985

I am honored to stand for election for the Appointment, Promotions, and Tenure (APT) committee. I am a quantitative psychologist who develops instruments, research designs, and data-analytic strategies for applied research questions in health and education. I also have interest and significant national service in disability assessment, standardized testing in higher education, ethics, and increasing diversity in science. Since arriving at UNC in 1989, I have enjoyed contributing to multiple dimensions of university life, starting with an early term on Faculty Council: (a) faculty governance (Chancellor's Advisory Committee; Executive Committee of Faculty Council; Hearings Committee; Committee on the Status of Women); (b) teaching excellence (advisory boards for the Academy of Distinguished Teaching Scholars, the Center for Teaching and Learning; Carolina Course Evaluation development and implementation; university teaching award committees, instructional technology advisory boards); (c) assessment policy (SACS planning and assessment); (d) research support for faculty, graduate students, and undergraduates (faculty retention study, Center for Faculty Excellence; promotion and tenure task force on mentoring; graduate dissertation awards/fellowships; advisory board of the Office of Undergraduate Research); (e) undergraduate curriculum (general education curriculum review; A&S Administrative Boards; assessment issues; intellectual climate); and (f) women's issues (the evolution and development of the Carolina Women's Center; salary equity, women in science initiatives; BRIDGES program evaluation; AWP Advisory Board). These diverse experiences have enriched my perspective, which I would be pleased to bring to the sensitive and important work of the APT committee.

Versenyi, Adam

Appointed 7/1/1990

Milly S. Barranger Distinguished Term Professor of Dramatic Art

D.F.A., Yale University, 1990

M.F.A., Yale University, 1986

B.A., Yale University, 1980

I am interested in joining the ATP to maintain UNC's high standards of faculty excellence. I believe that my background as a professional dramaturg will allow me to bring an understanding of both the fine arts and the humanities to the committee. In addition, I served for five years as Chair of the Curriculum in International and Area Studies, where I created a new track for the major in Global Health and Environment. From my work with CIAS I would also bring a good understanding of the social sciences, public health, and the environment. I look forward to bridging various disciplines while carrying out these important decisions regarding promotion and tenure.

Committee on Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure
School of Medicine

Vote for 2

Brennwald, Patrick

Appointed 7/1/2001

Professor, Cell Development and Biology

Ph.D., University of Illinois, 1990

B.A., Carleton College, 1985

I have been a faculty member at UNC since 2001 after being recruited here from Cornell Medical College in New York City. Following my promotion to professor in 2005 and being involved in the promotions of a number of junior faculty in my own department I became aware of the importance of the promotions and tenure committee to the overall academic mission of UNC. In addition having experienced number of different academic settings (Carleton College, U. Illinois, Yale U. and Cornell Medical College) I feel strongly that UNC-CH is a unique place for pursuing academic excellence in a highly interactive and collaborative environment. I believe that the promotions and tenure committee plays an important role in balancing the need for high standards for excellence without sacrificing the special kind of collaborative academic environment that all faculty benefit from at UNC.

Farber, Rosann

Appointed 8/1/1988

Professor, Pathology and Lab Medicine

Ph.D., University of Washington, 1973

A.B., Oberlin College, 1966

In addition to my primary appointment in the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, I have a joint appointment in the Department of Genetics as Professor and Associate Chair. One of my major administrative roles in Genetics is to put together applications for faculty appointments and promotions. I served on the School of Medicine Committee to Review Appointments and Promotions to Associate Professor from 2005 until 2009 and chaired the committee during the final year of my term. I have enjoyed celebrating the accomplishments of School of Medicine faculty, and I believe that I can make a significant contribution to the university by participating in this process for the campus as a whole. I look forward to learning about the scholarly activities of a broader set of colleagues.

Mill, Michael

Appointed 7/1/1988

Professor of Surgery

M.D., University of Colorado at Denver, 1980

B.A., Colorado College, 1976

Thorp, John

Appointed 7/1/1989

Distinguished Professor, Obstetrics and Gynecology

M.D., East Carolina University, 1983

B.A., University of North Carolina Chapel Hill, 1979

I am a North Carolina native who did undergraduate study (BS Zoology 1979), residency, and fellowship at UNC. I was appointed as an instructor in 1987 and have progressed through the ranks to hold professorship in the Schools of Medicine and Public Health. If elected, this would be a second term for me on the APT Committee. This is important service to the University as I would opine that it is the group that balances the competing tensions of academia-excellence amongst the tenured faculty and fairness to individuals who have invested their time and energy into academics. Of particular importance to me is the additional dimension that being a public university with a mandate to serve the state introduces into these decisions.

Committee on Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure Professional Schools other than Medicine

Vote for 1

Kjervik, Diane

Appointed 7/1/1995

Professor of Nursing

J.D., University of Minnesota, 1983

M.S., University of California at San Francisco, 1968

B.S., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1967

I have served as chair of APT committees in Schools of Nursing at UT-Austin and UNC-Chapel Hill for a total of 12 years. This service demonstrates my commitment to fair standard setting and implementation of faculty evaluation systems. With academic preparation and scholarship in both nursing and law, I understand the varying types of scholarship (teaching, research and service) across disciplines. Therefore, I am interested in and well-qualified to serve on the University's APT committee.

Rosamond, Wayne

Appointed 8/20/1992

Professor of Epidemiology

Ph.D., University of Minnesota, 1992

M.S., University of Minnesota, 1984

B.S., Colorado State University, 1980

I joined the UNC faculty 19 years ago, and have focused my teaching and research during this time on the prevention of heart disease and stroke. For the past 3 years, I served on the School of Public Health's Appointments, Promotion, and Tenure committee. With the knowledge and experience I gained in this position, I would like to expand my contributions to the University's mission by joining the University-wide Committee on Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure. This would allow me to become more broadly involved in the UNC community and educational environment. I have a passion for higher education and would embrace this opportunity.

Muller, Eric

Appointed 7/1/1998

Distinguished Professor, School of Law

J.D., Yale University, 1987

A.B., Brown University, 1984

I am the Dan K. Moore Distinguished Professor in Jurisprudence and Ethics and Associate Dean for Faculty Development at the School of Law. I joined the Carolina faculty in 1998 after four years at the University of Wyoming and seven years in the practice of law. I teach in the areas of constitutional and criminal law, and write chiefly about the incarceration of Japanese Americans in the United States during World War II. As Associate Dean for Faculty Development, I've worked closely with junior faculty moving toward tenure and promotion, instituted a mentoring program to assist with their professional development, and helped to bolster the scholarly productivity, teaching excellence, and service commitments of all faculty members at the School of Law. From this work, I recognize and support diverse research approaches and methodologies. As in my previous work on the Faculty Grievance Committee, I would commit in my work on APT to rigor and fairness in the handling of all matters coming before the committee.

Educational Policy Committee

Vote for 3

Benninger, Larry

Appointed 7/1/1978

Professor, Geological Sciences

Ph.D., Yale University, 1976

M.Phil., Yale University, 1973

B.A., Michigan State University, 1969

I have an abiding interest in learning more about the workings of the University and a particular interest in educational policy, which supports (and sometimes constrains!) so much of what we do. Given these interests I would welcome a term on the Educational Policy Committee. I came to UNC in 1978 after undergraduate work at Michigan State (chemistry) and graduate work at Yale University (geochemistry). At Carolina my primary appointment is in Geological Sciences, but I hold a joint appointment in Marine Sciences and am on the faculty in the Curriculum for the Environment and Ecology. I currently serve on the Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure Committee. Otherwise my university service has included terms on the Administrative Board of the Graduate School, the Administrative Board of the Library, the Faculty Advisory Committee for the Institute for the Environment, and as Chair of Geological Sciences (2002-2008).

Biddle, Andrea

Appointed 7/1/1992

Associate Professor, Health and Policy Management

Ph.D., Rand Institute of Policy Studies, 1990

M.Phil., University of Texas Health Science Center, 1986

B.S., University of California, Los Angeles, 1984

For the past three years I have served on the educational policy committee (EPC). During this time, we have worked and continue to work on a number of policies critical to providing well-rounded education opportunities for all students: the new grade reporting system, changes to the General Education curriculum, and EPC/Committee on Student Conduct Survey report, to name a few. I would like to have the opportunity to see these changes to completion and to continue to learn more about educational policy and university governance that I ever would have imagined possible.

Coble, Jennifer

Appointed 5/1/2006

Lecturer, Biology

Ph.D., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 2006

M.S., University of California at San Francisco, 2001

B.S., North Carolina State at Raleigh, 1998

I am eager to offer my knowledge, skills and sense of caring for our students to support the Educational Policy Committee. With a Ph.D. in science education, five years of high school teaching experience and ten years of teaching at UNC, I believe am well qualified to contribute to this Committee.

Raphael-Grimm, Theresa

Appointed 8/15/2001

Clinical Associate Professor, Nursing and Medicine (Joint)

Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1993

M.S.N., University of Pennsylvania, 1984

B.S.N., Thomas Jefferson University, 1982

Academic dishonesty, plagiarism, grade inflation and grade reform: this is only some of the “stuff” that is addressed by the Educational Policy Committee. As the University attracts ever more competent students, and faculty feel the pressure of student expectations to succeed, there are shifting norms around the meaning of excellence, the purpose of grades and the levels of honesty and integrity that can potentially be compromised during the process. Through committee membership I hope to more deeply understand all facets of these issues and make contributions toward their thoughtful resolution.

Pittman, A. Wayne

Appointed 6/1/1972

Associate Professor, Pharmacy

M.S., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1978

B.S., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1972

B.A., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1969

I am honored to have been nominated for service on the Educational Policy Committee. Having had a variety of teaching experiences from large lecture to problem-based learning, experience in academic affairs administration, and service as a member of the Faculty Council, the Agenda Committee, the Faculty Hearings Committee, Buildings and Grounds, and the Committee on Student Conduct, I may have experiences of value to deliberations of the Educational Policy Committee and would welcome serving the entire Faculty in that capacity. I would consider it a privilege to work with colleagues from across the Campus on matters before the Educational Policy Committee.

Faculty Assembly Delegation

Vote for 1

Houston, Norma

Appointed 6/15/2006

Lecturer, Public Law and Government

J.D., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1989

B.S., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1986

It would be an honor to serve as a member of the Faculty Assembly Delegation for three reasons. First, I developed a deep appreciation for the importance of shared governance while working for President Bowles on the UNC Tomorrow initiative. It is our faculty who primarily fulfill our University’s 3-pronged mission through our teaching, research, and public service; our collective voice is critical to guiding our University through these difficult times so that we can maintain the high quality and strong reputation of all aspects of our campus communities. Second, having worked at General Administration and in state government, I have a keen understanding of how priority-setting, open dialogue and effective communication can be used to successfully achieve goals within large, complex organizations. Third, as an alumna of Chapel Hill, it would be a privilege to serve those who enabled me to be who I am today.

Kramer, Lloyd

Appointed 7/1/1986

Professor of History

Ph.D., Cornell University, 1983

M.A., Boston College, 1973

B.A., Maryville College, 1971

Lloyd Kramer is a Professor of history and is currently serving a second term as chair of the History Department. He joined the UNC faculty in 1986. His teaching and publications focus on modern European history (with particular attention to France and the history of cross-cultural exchanges). He has served on numerous professional and University committees—including the Faculty Executive Committee, the Faculty Committee on Athletics, the Provost’s Task Force on Tenure/Promotion Guidelines, and the Faculty Council; and he has been an Associate Director of the Institute for the Arts and Humanities. He has served one term as a UNC-CH representative to Faculty Assembly, where he has sought to represent the concerns of the Chapel Hill faculty to the General Administration and to faculty colleagues at other universities in the UNC system. He believes that it is especially important to describe and defend the work of our faculty in this period of severe budget problems and transitions in the state’s political leadership.

Leonard, Stephen

Appointed 7/1/1985

Associate Professor of Political Science

Ph.D., University of Minnesota, 1987

B.A., Oakland University, 1979

I would be honored to serve as a member of the UNC-Chapel Hill delegation to the UNC system Faculty Assembly. The current restructuring of public higher education in the US represents a potentially radical departure from long-established practices and norms, and here in North Carolina the Faculty Assembly is a critical voice for representing faculty concerns about the integrity, public purposes, and standards of excellence that will define public higher education for many years to come. My interests in this position have many sources, and I would bring a broad experience to the task: I have served on a number of faculty committees concerned with faculty status, research, teaching, and extracurricular matters (Faculty Council, Faculty Welfare, Faculty Athletics, Faculty Information Technology, Graduate School Board, First Year Seminars), I teach the full range of our students (undergraduate, honors undergraduate, first year seminars, large lectures, distance education/online, graduate), my research and teaching interests encompass the philosophy and history of higher education, and -- not least -- I have four children who have been students in UNC system and NC community college schools. I believe I would be an effective voice for the UNC-CH faculty, and a committed representative of public higher education in North Carolina.

Faculty Athletics Committee

Vote for 3

Armitage, Christopher

Appointed 9/1/1967

Professor of English

Ph.D., Duke University, 1967

M.A., University of Western Ontario, 1964

M.A., Oxford University, 1958

B.A., Oxford University, 1954

In 44 years on the faculty here, I've witnessed many changes: stadia are continually enlarged, academic assistance for athletes is augmented, football on Thursday night TV intrudes, etc. But bigger isn't necessarily better. For example, the Cone-Kenfield Tennis Center located beyond the Friday Center is an impressive facility, but fewer spectators travel out there than did to varsity matches on the now-vanished courts across from Cobb dorm. Please also read my letter in the News and Observer of November 27, 2007 on the Editorial Page, under their heading "[One \[coach\] beats 24 \[professors\].](#)"

Foster, Beverly

Appointed 10/8/1982

Clinical Associate Professor, Nursing

Ph.D., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1993

M.P.H., University of Hawaii at Manoa, 1982

M.N., University of California at Los Angeles, 1976

B.S.N., Syracuse University, 1964

I believe my unique experiences with educational administration and policy as well as with student governance and the Honor system prepare me well for this committee. I have actively served on several university committees including the Educational Policy Committee (2006-present, chair 2009-09), the Administrative Board of the College of Arts and Sciences (2000-06), the Committee on Student Conduct (1991-2002, chair 1998-01), and the University Hearings Board (1988-present). I have been director of the undergraduate program in the School of Nursing since 1994. My professional experience in nursing regulation and accreditation provide me a foundation for the difficult policy and legal requirements that guide athletics. Finally, I am a graduate of this university and confirmed Tar Heel fan, supporting athletic events as a season ticket holder for many years. Your support would be appreciated for this position.

Gilland, Wendell

Appointed 1/1/1998

Associate Professor, School of Business

Ph.D., Stanford University, 1997

M.B.A., Stanford University, 1990

A.B., Harvard University, 1986

I have been a faculty member in the Operations Management area of the Kenan-Flagler Business School since 1997, and have had the opportunity to interact with many facets of the athletic department during my dozen years in Chapel Hill. I believe that Athletics has the opportunity to serve many important purposes at the University of North Carolina: building a sense of community between students, staff, faculty, alumni, and non-affiliated North Carolinians; raising awareness of the University throughout the country and the world; generating funds both directly and through increased alumni giving; and providing opportunities for exceptional student/athletes to attend the University on athletic scholarships. At the same time, it is important that the high profile nature of intercollegiate athletics not compromise the university's core educational mission. I hope that by serving on the Faculty Athletics Committee, I can play a role in continuing to foster an Athletics presence that strikes an appropriate balance between academic and athletic success, and for which the entire UNC community can be proud. Being the father of a division I scholarship athlete gives me an additional perspective on the role athletics can play at a university.

Osborne, Barbara

Appointed 7/1/1998

Associate Professor, Exercise and Sport Science

J.D., Boston College, 1997

M.Ed., Boston University, 1989

B.A., University of Wisconsin-Parkside, 1982

It is an honor and a privilege once again to be nominated to represent the faculty and serve the University on the Faculty Athletics Committee. I have served on this committee for the past 3 years. I have also served on the Committee on the Status of Women (Chair 2008-2010) and the Campus

Recreation Advisory Board. My past experience as a student-athlete, love and appreciation for collegiate sport as a fan, and critical analysis as a researcher that studies intercollegiate athletics, have all helped me to be a productive and knowledgeable member of the Faculty Athletics Committee. In my service I believe that I have been open minded, have considered all perspectives and data, and have made observations and recommendations that are beneficial to the university as a whole and fair to all of the various constituencies.

Stephens, John

Appointed 3/1/1996

Associate Professor, School of Government

Ph.D., George Mason University, 1997

M. Phil, The City University (London, UK) 1984

B.A., Earlham College, 1982

I am a casual, but not rabid, Carolina sports fan. I pay as much attention to my casual Ultimate Frisbee play in Durham and Carrboro as to football in Kenan Stadium. My interest centers on access and success for students enjoying athletics at all levels. I am glad to see the committee's work on exit interviews with graduating student athletes. The committee must insure that athletes receive adequate training on NCAA rules and other compliance issues. I joined the UNC faculty in 1996 and specialize in public policy dispute resolution. I served on the Faculty Grievance Committee for three years, the last year as chair. If selected, I will apply my listening and problem-solving skills to the challenges of melding strong athletics with the integrity of UNC's academic values.

Faculty Executive Committee

Vote for 4

Bachenheimer, Steven

Appointed 10/1/1975

Professor of Microbiology and Immunology

Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1972

B.S., University of Illinois at Urbana, 1967

I have been a faculty member since 1975, and since the 1980's I've actively participated in faculty governance both here at UNC-Chapel Hill and at the UNC System level. Examples of my previous and participation include Faculty council, Faculty Executive Committee (2002-2005), Faculty Assembly (2002-08, 2010-present), the University Insurance committee (chair, 2010-present), and the UNC-System ORP Investment Advisory Committee (2006-present). I have seen major changes at the University brought on by innovations in information technology, and the impact of external funding on research, that have propelled the university forward. I believe that I can offer my experience and institutional memory to the Chair of the Faculty and to the Provost when considering how these changes and others may impact faculty life.

Copenhaver, Gregory

Appointed 9/1/2001

Associate Professor, Biology

Ph.D., Washington University, 1996

B.S., University of California Riverside, 1990

I am honored to be nominated to stand for election to the Faculty Executive Committee. I'm a strong believer in UNC's proud tradition of faculty governance. Currently, the University faces both challenges and opportunities that require the perspective of dedicated faculty members. My service to the University includes two terms as a member of the Faculty Council, Director of Graduate Studies (MCDB) for the Biology Department, member of the Biology and Biomedical Sciences Executive Committee and member of an ad hoc committee to develop a Professional Science Master's Program at UNC (Chaired by Dean Matson). Outside the University I have served as the President of a biotechnology start-up company (Chromatin, Inc.), president of the North Carolina Academy of Science and as Deputy Editor-in-Chief of a leading scientific journal (PLoS Genetics). I believe my experience as a scholar, an entrepreneur and a teacher will enable me to serve and contribute meaningfully to the Executive Committee.

Lastra, Anselmo

Appointed 7/1/1991

Professor of Computer Science

Ph.D., Duke University, 1988

M.A., Duke University, 1981

B.S., George Institute of Technology, 1972

I've been at UNC for over 20 years, and am currently serving as the Chair of the Computer Science Department. Previously I've been Director of Graduate Studies and served on the Faculty Council. I'm running for the Faculty Executive Committee because I believe that we are all responsible for university governance, and need a strong faculty voice. This is especially important when times are tough and resources are scarce.

McMillan, Timothy

Appointed 7/1/1998

Senior Lecturer, African and Afro-American Studies

Ph.D., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1988

M.A., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1981

B.A., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1980

In 1977 I arrived in Chapel Hill as a freshman. I didn't think I'd be here thirty-four years later. In my thirteen years as a faculty member at UNC I have served on FITAC, the Faculty Welfare Committee, the First Year Seminar Advisory Committee, the Teaching Awards Committee, and the Martin Luther King Jr. Birthday Celebration Planning committee, the Faculty Council and the Faculty Council Agenda Committee. One of my most fulfilling acts has been to create and teach a first year seminar on "Defining Blackness" allowing me to connect with and to remember what it was like to be among the newest members of the Carolina community. It is an honor to have been nominated to run for the Faculty Executive Committee. I hope that my demonstrated commitment to active participation in campus governance and my 30-plus years of knowledge of this campus will make me a worthy candidate.

Parise, Leslie

Appointed 8/1/1988

Professor of Biochemistry and Biophysics

Ph.D., University of Illinois at Chicago, 1982

B.S., University of Illinois at Urbana, 1976

I received undergraduate degree in Chemistry and Biology from the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign and PhD in Pharmacology from the University of Illinois-Chicago. This was followed by postdoctoral work at UCSF/Gladstone Foundation with a focus on the biochemistry of blood platelets and cardiovascular disease, an interest that has continued to the present time. I joined UNC as an assistant professor in the Department of Pharmacology in 1988, became full professor in 1999 and Vice-chair in 2002. In 2006 I was named Chair of the Department of Biochemistry and Biophysics. As a department chair I have observed common problems and potential solutions of interest to multiple schools across campus, including budgetary issues, research funding, national awards and recognition for UNC faculty, and work/life issues. I am interested in serving on the Faculty Executive Committee to increase communication and creative solutions between the SOM other units on campus.

Swindler, Luke
Appointed 12/1/1980
Librarian

M.A., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1978

M.A., Emory University, 1976

B.A., Louisiana State University, 1972

I always have had a strong interest in University-wide matters, which is reinforced on a daily basis by my position as the Collections Coordinator for the University Library with responsibility for working with library administration and over thirty subject librarians to manage the library resources needed to support nearly all campus instructional and research programs. As such, I have broad familiarity with the academic enterprise at Carolina, together with the challenges that UNC faces as leading flagship university. My job also has given me experience working with people representing many constituencies across the disciplinary spectrum, together with exposure to the many different perspectives, priorities, and concerns that individual faculty and academic units have. Among the things that I hope I have learned are how to deal with diverse interests, analyze situations from varied perspectives, and work out acceptable solutions while not losing sight of the larger picture. In addition, I have been at UNC for more than 30 years and, as a result, have a broad and deep understanding of the University and the role that it plays locally, nationally, and internationally. On the last aspect I also serve on the International Affairs Advisory Committee that the Executive Associate Provost chairs, which has given me a university-side perspective on important issues that extend beyond the campus and impact on its ambitions to become a leading global institution.

Faculty Grievance Committee Professors

Vote for 1

Belger, Aysenil

Appointed 12/1/1999

Professor of Psychiatry

Ph.D., University of Illinois at Urbana, 1993

M.A., University of Illinois at Urbana, 1989

B.S., 1986

As a cognitive neuroscientist and biological psychologist my interest is in understanding human brain function and emotions. The studies conducted in my laboratory are concerned with functional anatomy of attention and information selection in the healthy human brain, and how these neural circuits breakdown in schizophrenia and other neuropsychiatric disorders. Our studies utilize multimodal neuroimaging techniques, including functional magnetic resonance imaging, scalp-recorded event-related potentials and behavioral neurocognitive testing batteries. I have been extremely fortunate during my career development to receive outstanding mentoring from numerous colleagues, at all stages of my training and maturation. I believe that one of the most important qualities of outstanding institutions is to develop strategies for improving communication both between faculty, but also between faculty and the administration, as well as students and faculty. Establishing and sustaining good communication, the will to listen to both sides of issues, and to work on fair win-win solutions, represent the best model for improving academic life, as well as retaining outstanding faculty and students. I have worked on the Chancellor's research advisory committee previously, and served on the Faculty Advisory Board, and I believe that I am familiar with both the University's policies but also the faculty's expectations from their administration. One such expectation is to establish fair, transparent and open communication opportunities and pathways to solve discrepancies and conflicts.

Egan, Thomas

Appointed 7/1/1989

Professor of Surgery

M.S., University of Toronto, 1984

M.D., University of Toronto, 1976

I came to UNC in 1989, and with the help of outstanding colleagues here, I established a new lung transplant program and helped build the general thoracic surgery and the multidisciplinary thoracic oncology programs. My laboratory has received funding from the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, NIH, and the Division of Transplantation of the Health Resources and Services

Administration to pursue the idea that lungs may be suitable for transplant even if retrieved hours after death; this would revolutionize lung transplantation here and around the world. In addition to service as a faculty member, I have been a student of Entrepreneurship through the Kenan-Flagler Business School and the School of Public Health. Because of a physical disability that prevents me from performing surgery, I now have more time to “give back” to UNC and pursue other important goals: I am a “Research Navigator” for the Clinical and Translational Science Award granted to the UNC School of Medicine; I work with colleagues in Radiation Oncology to employ a new technology to treat lung cancers (stereotactic radiotherapy or “Cyberknife”); I founded a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit “Lung Banks of America” to pursue my dream of transplanting lungs from the recently deceased; and I founded a for-profit company (X-In8 Biologicals Corporation) to commercialize discoveries made in my UNC lab. I am privileged to currently serve on Faculty Council (term expires summer 2011). As a faculty member who went through the process of filing a grievance myself, I would bring a different perspective to the Grievance Committee. It would be an honor to extend my service to the UNC community by serving on the Faculty Grievance Committee.

Phillips, Ceib

Appointed 9/1/1978

Professor of Orthodontics

M.P.H., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1990

Ph.D., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1976

B.S., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1970

Differences of opinion and perception can lead to miscommunication and dissatisfaction. The role of the Faculty Grievance committee is to serve as objective listeners for all parties, to mediate among the parties if possible, and, when necessary, to make recommendations for adjustments to the administration. My current involvement in the Faculty Development, Diversity, and Promotion and Tenure Committees at the School of Dentistry, have provided me with a strong foundation for participation in the Faculty Grievance Committee.

Faculty Grievance Committee Associate Professors

Vote for 1

Jarstfer, Michael

Appointed 7/1/2001

Associate Professor of Pharmacy

Ph.D., University of Utah, 1998

B.S., Trinity University, 1992

Kutcher, Mark

Appointed 9/10/1988

Associate Professor, Diagnostic Science and General Dentistry

M.S., Indiana University, 1977

D.D.S., Temple University, 1970

B.A., Temple University, 1966

Wolfe, Jessica

Appointed 7/1/1998

Associate Professor of English

Ph.D., Stanford University, 2000

A.B., Bryn Mawr College, 1992

I am an associate professor in English and Comparative Literature and currently director of the program in Comparative Literature. My research interests include English and European Renaissance poetry, the history of science, and the reception of classical literature and scholarship during the Renaissance. Having already served on more than a half-dozen university committees, from the Chancellor's Advisory Committee and the University Teaching Awards committee to committees for Study Abroad and the Office of Distinguished Scholarships, I am honored to be nominated for the Faculty Grievance committee. If elected, I will take seriously the charge to improve damaged institutional relationships and to ensure the fair and impartial treatment of all faculty members involved in mediations and hearings.

Faculty Grievance Committee Assistant Professors

Vote for 1

Beeber, Anna

Appointed 7/1/2005

Assistant Professor of Nursing

Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 2005

M.S.N., University of Pennsylvania, 2000

B.S.N., Hartwick College, 1998

As an Assistant Professor in the School of Nursing, I am honored to be nominated for the Faculty Grievance Committee. As a junior faculty member in the School of Nursing and a career development awardee in the School of Medicine, I have the opportunity to explore career development and advancement issues with junior faculty from across the campus. With this interaction I have come to understand the challenges faced by junior faculty at our institution. As a member of the Faculty Grievance Committee I believe these experiences will be informative as the committee hears and counsels faculty and academic leaders.

Cuddeback, Gary

Appointed 4/1/2003

Assistant Professor of Social Work

Ph.D., University of Tennessee at Knoxville, 2004

M.P.H., University of South Florida, 1998

M.S.W., University of South Florida, 1997

B.A., Furman University, 1991

I am committed to serving the university community as an active member of the Faculty Grievance Committee. I received my Ph.D. in social work from the University of Tennessee in 2004. I started working at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 2003 as a Research Fellow at the Cecil G. Sheps Center for Health Services Research. In 2008, I became an Assistant Professor at the School of Social Work. I am particularly interested in contributing to the effective governance of the university and helping to ensure that grievances among faculty and staff are resolved fairly and efficiently.

McLaughlin, Christopher

Appointed 8/1/2008

Assistant Professor, School of Government

J.D., Duke University, 1996

B.S., University of Pennsylvania, 1991

I joined the School of Government in 2008 from that dark blue school down the road and have grown to love Carolina blue. I thoroughly enjoy working at the SOG and would appreciate the opportunity get more involved with the larger campus. My background in labor and employment law, administrative proceedings, and university administration would serve me well as a member of the Faculty Grievance Committee.

Faculty Hearings Committee

Vote for 2

Duronio, Robert

Appointed 10/15/1996

Professor of Biology and Genetics

Ph.D., Washington University, 1991

B.S., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1986

Dr. Bob Duronio received a B.S. in Biology in 1986 from MIT and a Ph.D. in Molecular Biology and Biochemistry in 1991 from Washington University. He was a postdoctoral fellow at the University of California San Francisco from 1992-1996. In 1996 he joined the faculty at UNC-CH, where he is currently a Professor of Biology and a Professor of Genetics, the Director of the Curriculum in Genetics and Molecular Biology Ph.D. program, and an Assistant Dean for Research in the School of Medicine. His laboratory studies how the regulation of gene expression provides mechanisms for the control of cell proliferation during animal development. He is currently a member of the Faculty Hearings Committee and is interested in continuing on the committee.

Perreira, Krista

Appointed 7/1/2001

Associate Professor of Public Policy

Ph.D., University of California at Berkeley, 1999

M.S., Yale University, 1995

B.A., Pomona College, 1991

As a member of the UNC-Chapel Hill Faculty since 2001, I have collaborated with colleagues throughout the university including Latino and Latin American Studies, Nursing, Pharmacy, Psychology, Public Health, and Sociology. In addition, I have conducted research in conjunction with several UNC-Chapel

Hill research centers including the Carolina Population Center, the Center for Urban and Regional Studies, and the Sheps Center for Health Services Research. My research utilizes mixed-methods (i.e. qualitative and quantitative analytic approaches) to understand how migration, social contexts, and public policies influence the well-being of immigrant parents and their children. I look forward to applying these interdisciplinary experiences to service on the Faculty Hearings Committee.

Stewart, Kevin

Appointed 7/1/1986

Associate Professor of Geological Sciences

Ph.D., University of California at Berkeley, 1987

B.S., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1980

I have been a faculty member in the Department of Geological Sciences since 1986 and have served on a number of University committees, including the Administrative Board of the College of Arts and Sciences, the University

Teaching Award Committee, and the Educational Policy Committee. I have also served several terms as a member of the Faculty Council. My service to the University is a reflection of my strong commitment to faculty governance. I believe my years of service to the University and to the faculty along with my deep respect for both make me a strong candidate for this committee.

Warshauer, David

Appointed 10/1/1989

Professor of Radiology

M.D., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1978

B.S., Yale University, 1974

After growing up in eastern North Carolina, I trained at UNC and Yale. I've been on faculty here in the Department of Radiology since 1989. Since coming to Chapel Hill, I have developed a great love and respect for this institution and the collegiality that is such an important part of it. My interest in the Faculty Hearings Committee lies in its role in ensuring that fairness and due process are and continue to be an important part of that collegiality.

Financial Exigency and Program Change Committee
Division of Academic Affairs

Vote for 2

Akin, John

Appointed 8/1/1973

Distinguished Professor of Economics

Ph.D., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1971

M.A., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1971

B.S., Emory University, 1967

If the University does reach the unfortunate situation of needing to cut programs the decisions should be made with careful consideration of the benefits and costs of all alternatives. I believe my professional training, my experience working on health system financial reforms all over the world, and my experience in and knowledge of this university well suit me to help make such decisions. I am willing to serve but hope the committee has no need to meet during the coming years.

Engel, Jonathan

Appointed 7/1/1993

Professor of Physics and Astronomy

Ph.D., Yale University, 1986

B.S., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1981

I came to UNC in 1993 and have been an Associate Chair and the Director of Undergraduate Studies in the Department of Physics and Astronomy since 2004. In recent years I have worked to improve the courses, quality of teaching, and hospitality to majors offered by our department. I have also overseen several revisions to our BS program and the introduction of two new BA tracks. Though I have relatively little experience in campus-wide policy, I would be honored to serve on the Faculty Council, where I would work to better our university for both faculty and students.

Moran, Barbara

Appointed 7/1/1981

Distinguished Professor of Information and Library Sciences

Ph.D., Suny at Buffalo, 1982

M.L.S., Emory University, 1973

A.B., Mount Holyoke College, 1966

I have been on the faculty of the School of Information and Library since 1981. During my time at Chapel Hill, I have served two terms on Faculty Council and have also served on many university committees including the Chancellor's Advisory Committee. In this period of cutbacks in financial support to the University, the work of the Committee on Financial Exigency has the potential to be extremely important. I would like to contribute to the Committee's efforts in the event the Committee is called upon to make the difficult decisions outlined in the Faculty Code.

Searing, Donald

Appointed 9/1/1967

Distinguished Professor of Political Science

Ph.D., Washington University, 1967

B.A., Michigan State University, 1963

Let's hope that we do not have to declare formal financial exigency with all the difficult choices and consequences that can follow from that. If we do, however, I trust that the committee will do its best to balance thoughtfully and compassionately the interests of all those affected. And I'll do my best to promote that end.

Financial Exigency and Program Change Committee
Division of Health Affairs

Vote for 2

Baldwin, Albert

Appointed 3/1/1989

Distinguished Professor, School of Medicine

Ph.D., University of Virginia, 1984

M.S., Vanderbilt University, 1979

B.S., Georgia Southern University, 1971

Halpern, Carolyn

Appointed 1/1/1986

Associate Professor of Maternal and Child Health

Ph.D., University of Houston, 1982

M.A., University of Houston, 1979

B.S., University of Houston, 1976

Carolyn Tucker Halpern is a Professor in the Department of Maternal & Child Health, in the Gillings School of Global Public Health. She is a developmental psychologist by training and currently directs the doctoral program in her department. She is a faculty fellow at the Carolina Population Center and at the Center for Developmental Science, and Deputy Director of the National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent Health. Her research, which focuses on adolescent health and sexuality, is interdisciplinary and she collaborates with faculty colleagues in the College of Arts and Sciences as well as Public Health. She is interested in serving on a university-wide committee as part of her commitment to quality education and mentoring.

Otey, Carol

Appointed 7/1/1998

Professor, Cell and Molecular Physiology

Ph.D., University of California at Los Angeles, 1987

B.S., Trinity University, 1980

These are challenging times for UNC, and it will be important for the faculty to have input into all of the major decisions that will be made by our leadership in the months ahead. As interim chair of my department, I have had the opportunity to work closely with other chairs in the School of Medicine, with the Dean's Office, and with the faculty of my department. I feel that I have a clear understanding of their priorities, and it would be an honor to represent their views and my own by serving on the Financial Exigency Committee.

Swanstrom, Ronald

Appointed 3/15/1982

Professor of Biochemistry and Biophysics

Ph.D., University of California at Irvine, 1975

B.S., University of California at Irvine, 1971

I have been a UNC faculty member with an active research program since 1982. During that time I have served as interim chair of two different departments, and since 1998 I have served as Director of the UNC Center For AIDS Research. I have also served on the SOM Faculty Salary Equity

Committee. I believe I have the perspective to view the needs of the institution both as a faculty member and as an administrator.

Honorary Degrees and Special Awards Committee

Vote for 2

Estroff, Sue

Appointed 7/1/1982

Professor of Social Medicine

Ph.D., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1978

M.A., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1975

B.A., Duke University, 1972

Prior stints: Faculty Executive Committee (1995-99); Chair of the Faculty (2001-03); Co-Chair Academic Plan (current). The people we choose to honor reflect who we are and what we value in a very public way. These symbolic representations should be both honorific and communicative of our community.

Harris, Kathleen

Appointed 7/1/1990

Distinguished Professor of Sociology

Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1988

M.A. University of Pennsylvania, 1979

B.A., Pennsylvania State University, 1972

Orringer, Eugene

Appointed 7/1/1969

Professor of Medicine

M.D., University of Pittsburgh, 1969

A.B., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1965

Dr. Orringer served two terms as a member (including two years as the Chair) of the NIH Sickle Cell Disease Advisory Committee. He was also a member of the NIH GCRC Study Section and the President of the National GCRC Program Directors' Association. He served for 20 years on the North Carolina Governor's Council on Sickle Cell Disease, chairing the Medical Care & Research Committee, and he is a current member of the Steering Committee (and former Treasurer) of the Clinical Research Forum. From 2006-2010, he served on the NIH Advisory Committee for Research on Women's Health (ACRWH). In addition to his external committee service, Dr. Orringer has always been keenly interested in the work of the Honorary Degrees and Special Awards Committee and has already served one full term on the committee. He nominated two individuals (Francis Collins and Peter Agre), who were awarded an Honorary Degree. Several nominees selected by Dr. Orringer (Kay Waggoner, Katherine High, and most recently Larry Jameson), have been awarded Distinguished Alumnae and Alumnus of the University.

Thornburg, Ryan

Appointed 7/1/2007

Assistant Professor of Journalism

M.A., George Washington University, 2001

B.A., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1997

It is always an honor for me to be able to serve the University in any way I can. The people I have met here as a student, as member of the faculty and especially as a member of the Golden Fleece continue to amaze me with their creativity, dedication and compassion. I look forward to helping identify and recognize people both on and off campus who exemplify the spirit of Carolina and inspire our diverse community.

Apportioned Elections

Only voters with primary appointments in a division vote for candidates in that division.

Administrative Board of the Library Humanities

Vote for 1

Allen, Robert

Appointed 7/1/1979

Distinguished Professor of American Studies

Ph.D., University of Iowa, 1977

A.M., University of Iowa, 1975

A.B., Davidson College, 1972

Over my nearly 31 years at the university I have been a regular and enthusiastic user of library materials and services, particularly those available through our special collections libraries. Access to these world-class collections has significantly shaped my research and teaching. For the past five years I have also been involved in several faculty/library collaborations in the area of digital humanities. "Going to the Show" (www.docsouth.unc.edu/gtts) was recently awarded the American Historical Association's Rosenzweig Prize for Innovation in Digital Humanities. My work as historical advisor for this project was supported by an NEH Digital Humanities Fellowship in 2008. "Main Street, Carolina" (<http://mainstreet.lib.unc.edu>) was awarded the First C. Felix Harvey Award to Advance Institutional Priorities at UNC-CH. I regularly teach an undergraduate class on the development of "downtowns" in N.C., which makes extensive use of library material (<https://mainstcarolina.web.unc.edu>).

Langbauer, Laurie

Appointed 7/1/1995

Professor of English

Ph.D., Cornell University, 1985

M.A., Cornell University, 1982

B.A., Wesleyan University, 1976

The twenty-first century brings new opportunities (and challenges) to our libraries as they strive to maintain our first-class research materials, collected over the centuries, while expanding into new media. This is an exciting time to be part of the collective thinking that considers how to do more with less. I have worked most extensively with librarians in Davis, Wilson, and SILS for my research, teaching, and on exhibits, but have used the other campus libraries as well. I would be honored to have the opportunity to serve and to learn.

Administrative Board of the Library Natural Sciences

Vote for 1

Berkowitz, Max

Appointed 7/1/1983

Professor of Chemistry

Ph.D., Weizmann Institute, Israel, 1978

M.S., Novosibirsk University, Russia, 1972

My field is computational and theoretical physical chemistry and progress in the field, as in any other theoretical field, strongly depends on development of ideas, most of which are explained in the journals and books. I always loved books. What is going to happen to them now, when electronic publishing is revolutionizing the world of publishing and libraries? We need to find a good way to integrate our old concept of libraries with the new reality of e-print. As I see it, the Administrative Board of the Library needs to help in accomplishing this task and this is why I would like to serve on it.

Goodman, Sue

Appointed 8/1/1974

Professor of Mathematics

Ph.D., St. Louis University, 1974

A.M., St. Louis University, 1971

A.B., St. Louis University, 1968

I've been a faculty member here for over 36 years in a department that relies heavily on its library. I would work to maintain critical faculty and student library services for all to the fullest extent possible in these difficult budget times.

Administrative Board of the Library Social Sciences

Vote for 1

Brundage, Fitz

Appointed 7/1/2002

Distinguished Professor of History

Ph.D., Harvard University, 1988

M.A., Harvard University, 1984

B.A., University of Chicago, 1981

From my vantage point as a humanist and as a longtime user of UNC's libraries and admirer of their staffs, the libraries at UNC are the bedrock foundation of this university's excellence. My experience as a researcher, teacher, and as a participant in a multi-year web archive project have given me a keen interest in contributing my perspective at a time when the library has to deal simultaneously with accelerating technological innovation and a difficult fiscal environment.

Mosley, Layna

Appointed 7/1/2004

Associate Professor, Political Science

Ph.D., Duke University, 1999

M.A., Duke University, 1996

B.A., Rollins College, 1993

I'm interested in improving and maintaining UNC's research-related resources, for faculty, graduate and undergraduate students. In my own research, I've used a variety of materials, ranging from economic databases to historical archives, so I appreciate the many ways in which UNC Libraries contributes to the mission of the University.

Faculty Council Division Seats

Fine Arts (Non-tenured)

Vote for 1

Chambers, Janet

Appointed 7/1/2007

Assistant Professor of Design, Dramatic Art

M.F.A., University of Illinois at Urbana, 1980

B.F.A., University of Tennessee at Knoxville, 1977

I am honored to be nominated as a candidate for Faculty Council representing the Fine Arts Division of the College of Arts & Sciences. At a time when resources are most challenged it is important to recognize that the arts strengthen our academic community on every level. As Resident Designer for PlayMakers Repertory Company, I am well versed in the power of collaboration and the wisdom of optimizing our assets. I welcome the opportunity to be a voice for the arts and would look forward to working with my colleagues from all disciplines to creatively address the unprecedented challenges we face.

Levine, Cary

Appointed 7/1/2007

Assistant Professor of Art History

Ph.D., CUNY Graduate School and University Center, 2006

B.A., University of Michigan Ann Arbor

Having been here for four years, I have served on various committees and been involved in several cross-campus initiatives coordinated by my own department, the Ackland Museum, and the Institute for Arts and Humanities. I specialize in contemporary art, which means that I interact with the studio and art history sides of the Department of Art. This affords me special insights into the needs and perspectives of both scholars and practitioners, particularly at the pre-tenure level. I believe that these experiences will enable me to successfully serve as a junior-faculty representative for the Fine Arts Division.

Fine Arts (Tenured)

Vote for 1

Grabowski, Beth

Appointed 7/1/1985

Professor of Art

M.F.A., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1985

B.A., University of Virginia, 1978

I currently hold the titles of Assistant Chair and Director of Undergraduate Studies for Studio Art in the Art Department. I have served the University in numerous capacities over the years, including stints on the Chancellor's Advisory Committee, the Curriculum Review Committee, SACS Accreditation Subcommittee on Curricular Innovations, the Summer School Advisory Board and on the Ackland Museum's Executive Advisory board. As an IAH Leadership Fellow, I have had the opportunity to explore many topics of broad interest to the University community. My particular interest in serving on the faculty council is to represent and seek opportunities for the arts at UNC. I believe that the natural state of the institution is and should be one of dynamic change. Our job is to outline a conceptual and practical framework that considers the agents of change as they bump up against our guiding principles. I am interested in a creative approach which recognizes opportunity within process.

MacNeil, Anne

Appointed 7/1/1999

Associate Professor of Music

Ph.D., University of Chicago, 1994

M.A., University of Rochester, 1985

B.A., Ithaca College, 1981

I was raised to believe in community service and to actively participate in governance. I believe in doing what is right and fair for all, whether all have the ability to speak for themselves or not. I seek office to better serve my university community.

Wissick, Brent

Appointed 7/1/1982

Zachary Taylor Smith Distinguished Term Professor of Music

M.M., Pennsylvania State University, 1978

B.M., Suny College at Potsdam, 1976

I care deeply that the Fine Arts Division has an articulate voice on the Faculty Council. Having taught at Carolina for over 28 years, and having served on the Faculty Council in the past as well as other university committees, I can say that the Fine Arts Division is one of the most admired but largely misunderstood units in the College and University as a whole. I feel that I have worked to understand other schools and units as much as possible and can represent our Division's broad and subtle needs well in this complex context.

Natural Sciences (Non-tenured)

Vote for 2

Giovanello, Kelly

Appointed 7/1/2006

Assistant Professor in the Department of Psychology and the Biomedical Research Imaging Center

Ph.D., Boston University, 2003

M.S., Brandeis University, 1996

B.S., Stonehill College, 1995

My research combines behavioral, patient-based, and brain imaging approaches to investigate how people learn new information and remember their past experiences. I would be honored to serve on the Faculty Council to represent other non-tenured faculty in the Natural Sciences Division. I am especially interested in the status, recommendation, and implementation of policies concerning fixed-term faculty.

Mihalik, Jason

Appointed 8/7/2006

Assistant Professor, Exercise and Sport Science

Ph.D., The University of North Carolina, 2009

M.S., University of Pittsburgh, 2004

B.Sc., Concordia University (Canada), 2001

I am energized and honored by my nomination to represent the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's 3,600 voting faculty members on the Faculty Council. I currently serve on the Board of Directors of the Canadian Athletic Therapists Association (an international group of sports medicine practitioners), and have previously served on UNC-Chapel Hill's Carolina Engagement Council. During these trying financial times, faculty representation has been no more important than today. The faculty should have a strong voice, and I feel strongly my leadership experiences will permit me to represent you well on the Faculty Council.

Wiss, Charlie

Appointed 7/1/2006

Lecturer, Department of Psychology

Ph.D., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1991

M.A., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1987

B.A., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, 1981

I first came to UNC in 1991 as a Clinical Assistant professor in the Department of Psychology, after completing my PhD at the University of Michigan. This position involved a joint appointment with teaching at UNC and working as a clinical psychologist at John Umstead Hospital. What I quickly learned from this position was that I truly loved teaching and UNC. Many years (and a few job changes) later, after starting a family and serving as Clinical Director for a state facility for emotionally troubled youth, I felt extremely fortunate to return to UNC in 2006 and devote all my time to academic instruction at Carolina. I have had extensive committee and administrative experience and am currently serving as the Director for Foundation and University fellowships for the Department of Psychology. I would like to serve on the Faculty Council so that I may increase my contributions to the University and play some small role in helping maintain and advance this unique and special place. I am particularly interested in the undergraduate teaching mission and the intellectual and sociocultural climate for undergraduates.

You, Wei

Appointed 7/1/2006

Assistant Professor of Chemistry

Ph.D., University of Chicago, 2004

B.S., University of Science and Technology of China, 1999

I grew up in a university where both my parents were teachers. I constantly observed them actively serving their own institution, an action I always admired. I have gone through various institutions with different roles (Ph.D at Chicago, Postdoc at Stanford, and Assistant Professor at UNC), which helped me deeply appreciate how the service provided by the faculty, the students and the staff can shape the institution in many ways. All these past experiences under different roles also prepared me with a very good understanding of different levels of people in an academic institution. It's the time for me to serve and to contribute.

Natural Sciences \(Tenured\)

Vote for 3

Champagne, Art

Appointed 7/1/1990

William C. Friday Professor of Physics

Ph.D., Yale University, 1982

M.Phil., Yale University, 1982

M.S., Yale University, 1982

B.S., Trinity College, 1978

I've been at UNC for 21 years - the past (almost) 2 years as chair of Physics and Astronomy. To say that we face challenges sounds obvious and even trite, but the fact is that the near future will represent a new normal for us. We can't do more with less; we can't do the same with less; we can only do less with less. I hope that the Faculty Council can play a role in helping the University chart a course through this new landscape.

Cima, Joseph

Appointed 9/1/1964

Professor of Mathematics

Ph.D., Pennsylvania State University, 1963

M.A., Pennsylvania State University, 1960

B.A., Indiana State University, 1955

I have been a faculty member here for about 47 years. Some of those years have been spent on leave or as a visitor at various institutions throughout the Western World. I have been involved in all committee aspects of departmental committees as well as serving on a few University Committees over the years. My main interest is in mathematical research and I have blended this into my role as a teacher of both undergraduate and graduate students to form much of my approach to my profession.

Engel, Jonathan

Appointed 7/1/1993

Professor of Physics and Astronomy

Ph.D., Yale University, 1986

B.S., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1981

I came to UNC in 1993 and have been an Associate Chair and the Director of Undergraduate Studies in the Department of Physics and Astronomy since 2004. In recent years I have worked to improve the courses, quality of teaching, and hospitality to majors offered by our department. I have also overseen several revisions to our BS program and the introduction of two new BA tracks. Though I have relatively little experience in campus-wide policy, I would be honored to serve on the Faculty Council, where I would work to better our university for both faculty and students.

Jones, Christopher

Appointed 7/1/2002

Distinguished Professor of Mathematics

Ph.D., University of Wisconsin-Madison, 1979

M.S., University of New Mexico, 1976

B.A., University of Bristol (UK), 1974

The current climate of cutbacks has made me feel stronger about the faculty role in governing. As a university, we must focus our resources and make hard decisions. It is too easy to take a short range view when faced with the level of budget cuts we have had to deal with. The participation of senior, active faculty is critical in this process.

Shields, Ed

Appointed 7/1/1974

Associate Professor of Exercise and Sport Science

Ph.D., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1977

M.A.T., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1969

A.B., University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1969

I served on the Faculty Council a few years ago, and found it to be a good and positive experience, both enjoying and benefiting from the interaction with my faculty colleagues. Being involved in this manner in conducting the business of the University is very rewarding professionally and personally, as well as a way of "giving back" to my University. I would welcome the opportunity to serve in this capacity again if elected. My history with the University and in higher education is summarized on my web page.

University Libraries

Vote for 1

Chenault, Libby

Appointed 7/1/1981

Academic Affairs Librarian

Ph.D., University of North Carolina, 2002

M.A., University of North Carolina, 1991

M.L.S., University of North Carolina, 1983

B.A., University of Kentucky, 1979

As UNC-Chapel Hill's West European Librarian, I work daily with faculty, students, and staff in many of the disciplines and centers that relate to the College of Arts and Sciences and to the global initiatives of the campus. I came to the campus in 1981 thinking this would be a pleasant place to be for a few years but new opportunities and challenges have kept me here—first in the Wilson Library Rare Book Collection and more recently as a subject librarian at Davis Library. I am passionately committed to the research and service missions of our university and the university library. I have served previously on the Faculty Council and its committees as well as many campus committees so I understand what is involved. I am eager to work to insure that the library and the academy work in harmony to achieve the best possible advantages even in times of financial stringency.

Kamarei, Zahra

Appointed 2/1/1999

Academic Affairs Librarian

M.L.S., Indiana University, 1983

B.S., Indiana University, 1981

I came to the United States in 1976. Prior to coming to UNC, I held science librarian positions at Petrolite Corporation, University of Notre Dame, and Isfahan University of Technology, Iran. Here at UNC, I was the Math/Physics Librarian for 11 years, and recently I became the Head of Science Libraries. As a librarian, I am passionate about university's quality of education, and by the knowledge I will gain in serving the Faculty Council, I will do my best to support it in the science libraries.

School of Information and Library Science

Vote for 1

Lee, Cal

Appointed 7/1/2005

Assistant Professor, School of Information and Library Science

Ph.D., University of Michigan School of Information, 2005

M.S.I., University of Michigan School of Information, 1999

B.A., Albion College, 1995

I joined the faculty for the School of Information and Library Science in the fall of 2005. My research, teaching and professional activities are all driven by a passion for preparing future generations of information professionals to manage and preserve socially valuable materials that are created in digital form. I've been actively contributing to UNC's efforts to develop an institutional repository. I'm also currently engaged in investigations of the best strategies to collect and preserve materials from both the Web and physical media obtained by collecting institutions. I have served at the SILS representative of Faculty Council from 2008 to 2011. I have found it to be a terrific way for me to reach out further to the university community and learn more about how I can best contribute to the university's mission, and I would be interested in continuing to serve in this capacity.

Wildemuth, Barbara

Appointed 7/1/1988

Professor, School of Information and Library Science

Ph.D., Drexel University, 1988

M.Ed., Rutgers University, 1982

M.L.S., University of Illinois, Urbana, 1976

B.M.E., North Central College, 1971

From my perspective, SILS' representation on the Faculty Council is important for us to maintain our culture of faculty involvement in the governance of the School and the University. I would be happy to serve the School by serving as our representative.

School of Journalism and Mass Communication (Non-tenured)

Vote for 1

Cavin, Winston

Appointed 7/1/1999

Lecturer, School of Journalism and Mass Communication

B.A., University of North Carolina, 1975

As an alumnus (BA JOMC '75) who cares deeply about the University, and as a 34-year newspaper reporter and editor, I would bring the perspective of fixed-term lecturers who teach required courses and yet are subject to layoff. I understand the broad goals of the University and the fact that cuts must be made. I would work to protect the academic core, and would gain insight from working with faculty across the broad University spectrum.

Jones, Paul

Appointed 10/1/1977

Clinical Associate Professor, School of Journalism and Mass Communication

M.F.A., Warren Wilson College, 1993

B.S., North Carolina State University, 1972

I bring 30+ years of experience at UNC-Chapel Hill as a staff and full-time fixed term faculty member with multiple appointments to help us understand the issues and challenges facing the University and in particular the changing faculty and faculty roles. In addition, I serve and have served on several University, Town and Not-for-profit boards representing a diversity of approaches and of constituents with whom the faculty must interact and appreciate. I see these groups and the faculty council as collections of individuals with common issues and aspirations as well as groups guided by a collective, if contested, vision. You can expect that I will be guided by experience and awareness of issues as I try to provide a highly communicated engagement with the Council, the Faculty and the processes of governance.

<http://ibiblio.org/pjones/blog>

Twitter: @smalljones

<http://facebook.com/smalljones>

<http://www.linkedin.com/in/smalljones>

<http://www.quora.com/Paul-Jones-3>

AIM: smalljones

Gtalk: smalljones

O'Connor, Paul
Appointed 7/1/1993
Lecturer, School of Journalism and Mass Communication
M.A., University of Minnesota, 1976
B.A., University of Notre Dame, 1973

I've had a two-track career since 1988 – journalism and teaching journalism. I joined the faculty of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication in 1988 and gradually increased my teaching load from one course per year to six. I have also taught at N.C. State and UNC-Pembroke. From 1976 to 2008, I was a full-time journalist, covering state government in Raleigh from 1979 on for The Raleigh Times, the Capitol Press Association and the Winston-Salem Journal. I remain active in journalism, freelancing as an editorialist and editorial board member for the Journal. I have a practical understanding of how North Carolina politics work and maintain many contacts in the three branches. I hope my political knowledge, my experiences as a fixed-term faculty member and my deep respect for our School would be of service to the Council. My master's is in journalism and my bachelor's is in American studies.

School of Medicine (Non-tenured)

Vote for 3

Hackman, Trevor
Appointed 8/1/2009
Assistant Professor, Otolaryngology
M.D., University of Pittsburgh, 2003

I would like to become a more integral member of the UNC community, and specifically would like to help shape policies, which can beneficially impact our missions of education and excellence. I see this as a chance for me to contribute to the UNC community. As a practicing physician at UNC, I have had the privilege to work with the medical students and have been impressed with the caliber of students we attract. Education was one of the primary reasons I chose academic medicine, and I see this as an opportunity to increase my involvement with the university and student community.

Hill, James
Appointed 10/09/09
Assistant Professor, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation
Post-Doctoral Fellowship, Occupational and Environ Med, Yale University, 2005-2007
M.P.H., Yale School of Public Health, 2007
Residency, Physical Med & Rehab, UNC Hospitals 2001-2005
M.D., Medical University of South Carolina, 2001

I am excited to represent the School of Medicine on the Faculty Council and advocate for the issues we all face as we try to manage our clinical, research, and teaching responsibilities. In my regulatory and clinical roles as Medical Director for Occupational Health for the University, I serve on several University committees related to the health and safety of faculty and staff and interact daily with faculty, staff and students from all areas of campus life. I would be honored to serve during this unsettled yet exciting time in our history.

Kim, Sandra

Appointed 7/1/2003
Assistant Professor, Pediatrics
M.D., University of Michigan, 1994
B.S., University of Michigan, 1991

Miller, Thomas

Appointed 10/1/1991
Clinical Professor, Medicine
M.D., University of North Carolina, 1977
B.A., Oberlin College, 1973

The faculty council plays an important role in university governance. A general internist and clinician educator, I have been on the faculty for 20 years. I look forward to an opportunity to join discussions of issues affecting broader university life and representing medical school faculty in those discussions.

School of Medicine (Tenured)

Vote for 2

Bulik, Cynthia

Appointed 7/1/2003
Distinguished Professor, Psychiatry
Ph.D., University of California at Berkeley, 1988
M.A., University of California at Berkeley, 1985
B.A., University of Notre Dame, 1982

I have served as the Jordan Distinguished Professor of Eating Disorders in the Department of Psychiatry since 2003. The multifaceted nature of this role positions me well to represent a broad range of the interests as Faculty Council Representative for the School of Medicine. Directing both a clinical (UNC Eating Disorders Program) and research enterprise and maintaining responsibility for a truly interdisciplinary cadre of faculty and students ranging from undergraduates to post-doctoral fellows provides me with the relevant lenses to appraise strengths and needs of the many facets of the educational mission of the School of Medicine. Extensive collaboration with senior colleagues and mentorship of students across departments within the School of Medicine and within other Schools within the University adds breadth to the perspective I would bring to the Faculty Council. My deep dedication to mentorship and education and to building and maintaining a truly diverse university at all levels fuel my passion to serve in this capacity.

Carson, Culley

Appointed 10/1/1993

Rhodes Distinguished Professor, Urology
M.D., George Washington University, 1971
B.S., Trinity College, 1967

It is a great honor and responsibility to serve on the UNC Faculty Council for the School of Medicine. As a faculty member for 18 years with experience as a division chief, member of medical school committees including: promotion, faculty development, medical staff executive committee and others, I have the experience and institutional knowledge to represent the medical school faculty effectively. My experience as a faculty member at two other institutions gives me a unique perspective on faculty issues and concerns. With the current budget and healthcare climate changing rapidly, it is essential to have a firm and thoughtful voice representing the medical school on the University Faculty Council, and I believe that I can provide that representation, voice and leadership.

Hamer, Robert

Appointed 1/15/2001

Professor of Psychiatry, Biostatistics, and Psychology
Ph.D., University of North Carolina, 1979
M.S., North Carolina State, 1976
A.B., University of North Carolina, 1971

As both an A.B. and Ph.D. graduate of the University of North Carolina, as well as current faculty, I care deeply about the University, and the effectiveness and integrity with which it performs its research and teaching missions. As a biostatistician, I function as a research methodologist when collaborating with the investigators with whom I work. As a teacher, I teach mainly an introductory Biostatistics class for graduate students in Public Health, in the hopes of helping them built the tool set they need in order to perform research and interpret research effectively. Serving on the Faculty Council, especially in these problematic times, will give me an opportunity to play a role in the way the University approaches these challenges.

Barnhill, Larry

Appointed 7/1/1987

Professor, Psychiatry
M.D., Wake Forest University, 1975
B.A., University of North Carolina, 1971

Over the last 25 years I have worked in the Department of Psychiatry at the UNC School of Medicine. Although much of my clinical work is devoted to complex development disorders, I have taken an active role in state and nationwide efforts to improve health care and quality of services for people with development disabilities. My deep commitment to UNC-CH and desire to see this university remain among the elite institutions in America drive me to seek this position. I believe that I can bring this range of experiences to bear during these trying times.

Spagnoli, Anna

Appointed 10/1/2007

Associate Professor, Pediatrics and Biomedical Engineering
M.D., University of Rome, 1988

UNC as a modern research university has a distinctive role and identity, informed in large part by its faculty community and the intellectual, moral, and social ties that bind us together. As a faculty physician-scientist I bring a deep understanding of such ties and collegiality as my role as faculty at UNC has been to connect with diverse groups of people from basic science researchers to clinicians, from medical students to residents to graduate students and post-doctoral fellows in the inspired pursuit of the common goals that are overall to provide exceptional teaching, research and patient care at UNC. I would hope to do the same on the Faculty Council and I am honored to run as a representative from the SOM. On the Council, my hope would be to: 1.) represent and advocate your interests and the interests of the faculty to the University administrators and community; 2.) further expand the visibility and efficacy of the Faculty Council, and better understand its functioning; 3.) serve in other capacities, including advocating for the UNC experience - and our students, faculty, and staff - as a whole. Thank you for your support.

School of Nursing (Non-tenured)

Vote for 1

Carlson, John

Appointed 11/1/1988

Research Associate Professor, School of Nursing
M.S., Virginia Polytechnic Institute, 1975
B.S., University of Iowa, 1971

A strong faculty voice is the keystone to maintaining the independence of thought and educational practice that the faculty exercise in their service to North Carolina, our nation, and the world. The fixed-term faculty make significant contributions to all missions of the University and through the Faculty Council can be heard in the University. This is a crucial period for the fixed-term faculty, while there has been positive movement towards improving the status of fixed-term faculty, other developments are cause for concern. As a member of the SON APR committee for several years, I have first-hand knowledge of the issues facing the School's fixed-term faculty and would welcome the opportunity to continue to represent you on the Faculty Council.

Hodges, Eric

Appointed 7/1/2007

Assistant Professor, School of Nursing
Ph.D., Oregon Health Science University, 2005
M.S.N., George Mason University, 1999
B.S.N., University of Tennessee, 1996
B.A., University of North Carolina, 1994

I have been on faculty since July 2007. Having been a Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Nurse Faculty Scholar since 2009, I have been exposed to a broader view of academic professionalism and responsibility at the University, in addition to regional, national, and international contexts. I am interested in developing a deeper understanding of the University as a whole while fostering strong representation for the School of Nursing in discussions and decisions which impact all of us.

Jenerette, Coretta

Appointed 9/1/2007

Assistant Professor, School of Nursing

Ph.D., University of South Carolina, 2004

M.S.N., University of South Carolina, 2000

B.S.N., Clemson University, 1993

My affiliation with the School of Nursing, first a post-doctoral fellow and now an Assistant Professor, has been rewarding. However, up to this point, I have devoted my service to the School of Nursing and to my community. Serving on the Faculty Council would expose me to broader opportunities within the University to collaborate, follow, and lead. It would be my pleasure to learn while being of service to the University.

School of Pharmacy (Tenured)

Vote for 1

Ives, Tim

Appointed 5/11/1981

Professor, Pharmacy

M.P.H., University of North Carolina, 1990

Pharm.D., University of Florida, 1979

B.S.Pharm., University of Florida, 1977

Providing service to the University community is an integral part of its culture, and is at the core of my reason to consider running for this position. Over the past few years, I have served the Eshelman School of Pharmacy as the Alternate to the Faculty Council, and have attended a number of the meetings. This has provided me with a good understanding of the issues that have been, and will continue to come before the Faculty Council. Through representation on the Faculty Council, we can continue to have an impact on the scope of activities that impact the University community, while maintaining the presence of the School of Pharmacy at the University level. It would be both an honor and pleasure to serve.

School of Public Health (Non-tenured)

Vote for 1

Fry, Rebecca

Appointed 7/1/2008

Assistant Professor, Environmental Sciences and Engineering

Ph.D., Tulane University, 2000

M.S., Tulane University, 1997

B.S., Hobart William Smith College, 1995

My interest in serving as a representative is three-fold. These are: (1) I would like to learn firsthand about how the Faculty Council operates, (2) I will bring a junior female faculty/Assistant Professor's perspective to the position, and (3) and I am interested in the opportunities for collaboration/school service and learning that the position may facilitate.

Reiter, Kristin
Appointed 7/1/2005
Assistant Professor, Health Policy and Management
Ph.D., University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, 2004
M.A.E., University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, 2000
B.S., Northern Illinois University, 2003

I joined the Department of Health Policy and Management (HPM) in the Gillings School of Global Public Health in 2005 as an Assistant Professor of Health Care Finance. I have devoted my academic career to solving pressing public health challenges through research in financial management, and through the financial education of the next generation of public health leaders. I have been an active member of my Department and the School, teaching and advising students at the undergraduate, masters and doctoral levels. I have served on Department and School level committees for five years working on issues of research, diversity and inclusion, and educational excellence and innovation. My service record includes active involvement on the Advisory Committee for the Bachelor of Science in Public Health Program in HPM where I have worked on curriculum design, admissions, and the development of competencies. I am excited to extend my service to the university level where I can participate in the formation of policies that will ensure a vibrant future for the educational missions of the Gillings School of Global Public Health and UNC-Chapel Hill. I am honored to be nominated for service on the Faculty Council, and will vigorously and enthusiastically represent the interests of the School and its faculty if I am elected.

Retired Faculty

Vote for 2

Anderson, John J.B.
Professor Emeritus, Nutrition
Ph.D., Cornell University, 1966
M.A., Harvard University, 1958
M.A., Boston University, 1962
B.A., Williams College, 1956

Boulton, Donald A.
Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Emeritus
Clinical Professor, School of Education
Ed.D., Teachers College at Columbia University, 1961
M. Div., New Brunswick Theological Seminary, 1955
B.A., Alfred University, 1952

I have participated in several community service organizations over the years. I have also served as Visiting Professor and consultant for 11 years at St. Mary's College, St. Andrews University in Scotland. These are challenging times for our University and I am interested in joining the Faculty Council team as it helps to seek solutions to these challenges.

Cramer, Elliot

Emeritus Professor, Psychology
Ph.D., The Johns Hopkins University
M.A., The Johns, Hopkins University
B.S., Massachusetts Institute of Technology

I am pleased that retired faculty will now have representation on the Counsel. When I previously served on the Committee on the Status of Women I found that my background in applied statistics was helpful and I would hope to be of service in the future.

Howes, Jonathan

Adjunct Professor, Public Policy
Special Assistant to the Chancellor, Local Government Relations
M.P.A., Harvard University, 1966
M.R.P., The University of North Carolina, 1961
B.A., Wittenberg University, 1959

I have served the University for more than forty years in a large variety of teaching, research, administrative and public service positions. Most recently, I chaired the preparation of the campus master plan and represented the University in working with our local governments, and currently, I am working with Professor David Godschalk on a book about the dynamic decade of physical expansion of our campus in 2000-2010. In the immediate and longer term future, we face unprecedented challenges and extraordinary opportunities. Participation in the deliberations of the Faculty Council at this time affords an especially appropriate opportunity to apply my experience and expertise in planning and public affairs as we work on the future of our University.

