

OSCAR ROSS EWING

Oscar Ross Ewing, A.B. Indiana University and LL.B. Harvard University, was for a time instructor in the University of Iowa Law School before entering private practice, in which he distinguished himself. He has served as Vice-Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and as special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States. From 1947 to 1952 he was Administrator of the Federal Security Agency, a forerunner of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, which included then as now, among others, the United States Office of Education, the United States Public Health Service, and the Social Security Administration. A citizen of North Carolina since 1960, he has been active in local and State affairs, and played a significant part in bringing the Environmental Health Center to the Research Triangle. The University of North Carolina is happy to bestow on him the degree of Doctor of Laws.
